FARLWELLS AND FLOWERS

(From Wednesday's daily.)

A veritable garden bank of carnations, ilimas, plumarias and maile dec orated the starboard side of the thau-dine as she weighed anchor at 5 o'clock esterday afternoon on her run to iner-island ports. A large delegation of the Kamehameha school boys and girls comprised most of the passenger list. The waving of bandkerchiefs, the moving to and fro of the beautiful leis, the grey uniforms of the cadets intermingling, the farewell shouts, the commands of the officers, the omnipresent tooting of the warning whistle, formed a scene of adieu and steamship departing which equals any sailing day's excitement, even of that of a large ocean greyhound. Happy faces showed above the rails, and the fact that school was over and the holidays commenced was fully interpreted.
